

Tecnostyl is an Italian manufacturing company in the national and international market since 1948.

It has immediately specialized in high-precision technical drawing aids, gaining quickly a position of absolute leadership for the sector.

In the mid-90s, Tecnostyl enters in the world of the office products, always pursuing a high quality and functionality of the products, the result of decades of expertise and market presence.

Since 2000 the study and the implementation of new solutions have helped to make available to customers a wide range of products for visual communication, with refined Italian design combined with quality materials used to expose products, catalogs, brochures, communications , and advertisements in the best way.

The constant desire to innovate and explore new markets led Tecnostyl to appear in the world of window dressing by developing know-how for LED display solutions.

Choosing Tecnostyl means to prefer a company that has been working for more than 60 years providing a product which bases its roots in the history of a country that is recognized for excellence and quality.

This is the reason why the most part of the production is still maintained in Italy, a constant commitment to guarantee those values that have always distinguished us.
